'BYE FOR NOW

Students in Andover public schools will say goodbye to school and hello to summer tomorrow, Friday, during their last day of school. Eighth grade students at Doherty Middle School, who will attend high school next year, will leave something of themselves behind — their silhouettes, as part of an art project created by every member of the class. Senior leader proposal:

Senior center could become joint facility

By Greta Cuyler

Let the seniors proceed with building a senior center and if, over the next five to 10 years, the town decides it still needs a community center, the town can take over the building and convert it into a community center.

That's the idea Dorothy Bresnahan proposed to selectmen on Monday.

"The community center doesn't seem as popular as we were led to believe. They don't have a spot for it, no firm definite plan," said Bresnahan.

She made it clear that her plea was as a private citizen and not part of her role as a member of the Andover Council on Aging or as a member of the Senior Center Task Force.

"We have a plot, plans for our building. Since we're at the point where we can advance, let us go ahead," said Bresnahan.

Saying the youth are "on their way," Bresnahan is still concerned that it will be five or more years before a youth center could become a reality.

"It would be nice to have that (senior center) in place," she said.

She has collected signatures for a Special Town Meeting petition to vote again on the senior center, but will wait until to deliver the petition to the town so the meeting can be held in the fall. She wants the second vote to take place on a Saturday afternoon, during daylight hours, to allow as many seniors as possible to attend.

Selectman Chairman Ted Teichert asked Bresnahan to attend the next selectman's meeting on June 29, where the agenda will focus on what kind of center — youth, senior or community — Andover should have.

Selectmen to ponder next step

Selectmen plan to hold a special meeting next Wednesday to discuss how they believe Andover should proceed in its pursuit of senior, youth or community centers.

"It's more about us, the board, talking about where we want to go from here," said Chairman Ted Teichert. "We want to see if there's a consensus and where we can go from that point."

Separately and without success so far, senior-citizen and youth groups actively have pursued building their own centers for more than a decade each. Concrete plans have been created for each center, with current plans detailing the layout of a publicly funded downtown senior center and a privately funded West Andover youth center.

Periodically during this time, the idea of pursuing one community center to serve all ages also has been suggested. But no community center plan has ever been formed.

For a look at where the senior, youth and community center efforts currently stand, see page 5.

FIVE MORE YEARS

Manager gets raise, retirement bonus

By Dorian Block

Selectmen unanimously granted Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski a 5.8-percent pay increase, bumping his $116,230 salary to $123,000.

As part of a five-year contract that begins July 1, selectmen Monday night also approved $4,000 a year in deferred compensation, a new benefit that Stapczynski will collect in the form of a bonus upon his retirement.

The raise is the first for the manager in two years. Selectmen froze Stapczynski's salary two years ago to send a message to other town employees that there was no money for raises across the board. Last night, they said they hope the raise this year will make up for the freeze.

Selectmen say Stapczynski's raise is also a reward for his performance and longevity.

Stapczynski, 57, will begin his 15th year as manager this summer, and is Andover's longest-serving town manager.

His salary is modest for the job, selectmen said.

"He's the CEO of the community," Selectman Brian Major said. "The CEO of a company with a $120 million operating

SOCIAL SECURITY

Meehan calls on seniors to fight Bush plan

By Greta Cuyler

Calling Social Security "the most effective government program in the history of our country," Congressman Marty Meehan (D-Lowell) lobbied local seniors on Monday to fight President George Bush's plan to privatize Social Security. Bush's proposal, still in the discussion stage, would allow people to divert funds out of the Social Security trust fund and into personal investment accounts, with the expectation they can build a larger nest egg for retirement.

While some residents in the packed cafeteria at the Andover Senior Center said they were intrigued by the possibility of private accounts, others agreed with Meehan that they did not want to jeopardize the existing program. Today, 49 million Americans collect Social Security benefits, including 1 million Massachusetts residents.

Evelyn Retelle of Andover has five grown children, four of whom live in town with their families. According to Retelle, most have grade-school children and she worries they might have difficulty saving for retirement as taxes continue to increase. "At least they have Social Security," she said.

Meehan's core opposition to the president's plan is concern that placing retirement benefits in the stock market could threaten the entire Social Security system. The recent demise of Enron and Worldcom, along with an unpredictable economy, prove that pension plans and 401k programs are hardly secure, he said.

But at least one woman in the audience was intrigued by the president's private account idea. She told Meehan that although she has been paying into Social Security since her sophomore year in high school, the IRA she opened just 18 years ago has a higher principal balance than her Social Security account.

Meehan said he supports taxpayer investment incentives, but they "should complement the Social Security program, not take it away."

Calling it an "insurance program, not an investment program," Meehan wants Social Security to stay true to its intended purpose as signed into law by Franklin Delano Roosevelt in 1935. The program was designed to support each generation's retirement through contributions by working generations, he said.

"The problem with privatization is that it takes away from the Social Security trust fund," said Meehan.

Concerned about rising consumer debt, he said he wants to maintain the governmental safety net for those who are without the means to support themselves after the loss of a relative, a disabling injury or retirement.

Today, said Meehan, two-

Main Street changes head to MassHighway

By Greta Cuyler

The more-than-$3-million plan to change Andover's Main Street will soon be presented to the Massachusetts Highway Department, with construction expected to begin next spring.

The plan is the culmination of the Main Street Committee's work over the past several years, aimed at enhancing safety, improving traffic control and beautifying the street.

The number of parking spaces along Main Street will not change, according to Andover Police Safety Officer Patrolman Robert Cronin. "It'll be about a wash," he said. "What the project's really doing is, for the No Parking areas in town, they'll be a little more clearly marked with bump-outs." Cronin said one of the key reasons for sidewalk bump-outs is to shorten the walking distance of pedestrians crossing the street.

According to Cronin, traffic lights from Stevens Street to Phillips Academy will be synchronized, and a new turning lane in front of Old Town Hall will ease the traffic flow of cars lining up to turn onto Barnard Street.

Cronin said the project is a "good traffic improvement" and residents, business people and town employees worked on both the major and minor changes.

DOHERTY MIDDLE SCHOOL

School evacuated after 'bomb scare' note

By Judy Wakefield

Doherty Middle School was evacuated as a precaution after the words "bomb threat" were found written on a boys bathroom wall last Friday, June 17.

The evacuation occurred after a student reported to a teacher he had seen a suspicious message. Principal Floyd McManus, who is retiring on June 30 after 14 years at the school, said the small script message read, "bomb threat." The school's crisis team helped McManus evacuate students, while the police and fire departments were called just after 12:15 p.m. The building was searched and nothing was found, so students and staffers returned, said McManus.

He said he was "skeptical" that the threat was real.

"The words were so small and it was so vague," he said.

McManus later learned that a student had seen the words a few days earlier but did not report it because the lettering was so small and difficult to read.

McManus said no one has been charged with writing the threat, although he considers the act "serious."

In a letter to parents, McManus wrote, "Some students obviously do not realize that actions of this kind can result in very severe consequences for the student or students involved. Please discuss with your child that any threat is taken seriously and will be fully investigated."

Andover science firm wins EPA grant

By Victor Tine

Physical Sciences Inc. of Andover has received $225,000 through a federal grant program to develop a monitor that will continually measure airborne metals produced at large-scale pollution sources such as incinerators and power plants.

Amy Bauer, principal research scientist at Physical Sciences, said the grant — awarded by the US Environmental Protection Agency through a program recognizing innovative work at smaller businesses — is key to the company's progress with the metals monitor. It also demonstrates the pollution agency's desire to better monitor potential hazards to air quality, she said.

"This type of instrument is pretty critical to the EPA controlling these emissions," she said.

Bauer said Physical Sciences already has developed ways to detect lead, chromium and cadmium in airborne particles and the company now is developing methods to identify other harmful materials such as arsenic and selenium as well.

The monitor works by measuring the reflected light emitted after source emissions are exposed to a specialized form of ionized gas. Some metals such as lead emit light back in the visible range; others such as arsenic bounce back light in the deep ultraviolet range.

"The instrument will help large air pollution sources ... meet their EPA obligations to monitor and report their emissions," Bauer said, adding the monitor would operate in real time and improve over current methods, "a technique that is slow, labor intensive and not amenable to automation."

The grant — awarded through the EPA's Small Business Innovation Research program — was announced this week by US Rep. Marty Meehan, D-Lowell.

Physical Sciences was chosen from among 37 applicants across the country for the grant, Meehan's office said.

PSI employs 129 people in Andover. The privately-held company posted a 10-percent jump in sales last year, rising to $33 million. In the last 32 years, the company has received more than $250 million in government grants, funding commercialization research into everything from space-ready polymers to medical devices that monitor the human retina.

New, flat rates for renting Old Town Hall

Changes to the resident and non-resident rental rates for the Andover Town House, also known as Old Town Hall, became effective at the June 6 selectmen meeting.

It now costs $750 to rent the building for an eight-hour period. Prior to the rate change, residents paid $600 and non-residents paid $1,000. According to Lisa Campbell, facilities coordinator for the town of Andover, the price was changed to simplify the price structure and "encourage more people to rent the building."

Town groups using the building will not pay rental fees. However they will have to pay for custodians if the events take place at night during times when the building is normally closed. Custodial costs run approximately $25 to $30 per hour.

The Andover Public Schools is participating in the US Department of Agriculture Summer Food Service Program for Children. The program provides free, healthy meals in the summer for children who rely on free school meals during the academic year.

Free meals are provided to attending children 18 and younger. Meals are provided at the Lawrence Boys Club and Lawrence Girls Club, 136 Water St., Lawrence from July 5 through Aug. 19.

Phillips conducting summer interviews for 2006-07

Phillips Academy is conducting interviews now through Sept. 2 for local students planning to apply for admission to the 2006-07 school year. Each applicant to Phillips Academy is required to have a personal interview as part of the admission process.

In response to an unprecedented demand last year for fall interviews, the Office of Admission is encouraging local families to take advantage of their proximity to Phillips Academy and come to campus during the summer for an interview.

Interviews and student-guided tours are being offered from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday and Friday, and from 9 to 11 a.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. These visits provide time to learn about the school and to speak with admission counselors and student tour guides. All summer tour guides are current day students who are eager to share their perspectives and experiences.

The Office of Admission will host two open houses (one in late fall, the other in mid-January 2006) so local families can visit while school is in session.

To schedule an interview and tour, call the Phillips Academy Office of Admission at 978-749-4050.

For more information about the admission process, call Vivien Mallick, associate dean of admission, at 978-749-4062.

IRS: Seasonal tax advice helps newlyweds, families using day camps

Advice for Newlyweds

June is wedding season, and according to Peggy Riley, IRS media relations specialist, there are some practical things for newlyweds to attend to once the honeymoon is over and they get their feet back on the ground.

She says they should:

- Report any name change to the Social Security Administration, so names and social security numbers will match when they file their next tax return.

- Report any address change to the US Postal Service, which will forward mail and let the IRS know. People can also notify the IRS directly by filing Form 8822, Change of Address.

- Consider whether they will file joint or separate returns.

- People buying a home should find out which expenses might be deductible and which are not.

See the IRS Web site: IRS.gov for more information.

Summer Day Camp

Many working parents must arrange for care of their younger children during the school-vacation period. A popular solution with favorable tax consequences is a day-camp program. Unlike overnight camps, the cost of day camp counts as an expense towards the child and dependent care credit. Even if parents' child-care provider is a sitter at home, they get some tax benefit if they qualify for the credit.

Marty Meehan addresses a group of local residents at the Andover Senior Center on Monday.

Seniors discuss Social Security

thirds of the seniors who are receiving Social Security benefits rely on the funds for a majority of their income. Meehan suggested politicians "take privatization off the table" and work in the spirit of Ronald Reagan and Tip O'Neill to find a bipartisan solution to strengthen Social Security.

"The only secure system is the one that doesn't gamble your retirement on whether the stock market is up or down when you're about to retire," said Meehan during his speech.

Meehan dismisses the president's gloomy picture of the program's future. According to figures provided by the Congressional Budget Office, if the country takes no action for reform, Social Security will pay out 100 percent of benefits until 2052 and 78 percent of benefits until 2075, he said.

A recent statement by Social Security trustees said the program's funds will only last until 2041. But those six trustees were all appointed by the president and support the privatization program, said Meehan.

"There are challenges, but it's not a crisis," he said.

Meehan said he is more concerned about issues not at the top of the president's agenda, including affordable health care and Medicare. Citing a report by the Social Security trustees, Meehan said Medicare is estimated to run out by 2020.

Andover resident Raymond G. Potvin said he is concerned about the president's Social Security reform plan because it is backed by the same people who backed deregulation.

"Deregulation created Enron, it created the blackouts. It changed our national parks, which were supposed to be preserved forever," said Potvin. "Don't trust people if you've been burned before."

Social Security taxes put into private accounts would limit the fund's ability to pay out current benefits, argued Meehan, adding that Bush's plan would actually cause benefits to be depleted about 10 years sooner than current projections.

"We're leaving a legacy of debt to the next generation," he said.

Local residents had the chance to question US Congressman Marty Meehan about Social Security.

Students winners in LWV contest

Young Andover residents were winners of awards this spring during the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts' sixth annual online student essay contest.

Winning "Honorable Mention" from grades 4 to 5 were Amy Ginsberg, Conrad Krendel-Clark, Angela Lei, Betsy Lownie and Rachel Moore. Winning an "Honorable Mention" from grades 9 to 12 was Katherine Dix.

FLAG DAY

The residents and staff of Wingate at Andover an Andover Street nursing and rehabilitation center, celebrated Flag Day on Tuesday, June 14 with a flag-raising ceremony directed by John Doherty, veterans director for the town of Andover (far left in photo). Local veterans who accompanied Doherty for this special event were Leo Doherty, Al Dusey, Rich Guilmette, Warren Kearns and Jim Demers. This ceremony also honored veterans who reside at Wingate and was followed by a cookout.

budget, plus an $80 million capital budget, would make a lot more than that."

In November selectmen rated Stapczynski as meeting or exceeding expectations in all categories of his performance evaluation, except in contract negotiations. The town's Police, Fire and Public Works departments have been working under their expired contracts for a year.

Major said it is unfortunate the unions have not reached an agreement with the town, but he sees Stapczynski's contract as a separate issue.

Stapczynski also receives five weeks of paid vacation a year, coverage of 85 percent of his health insurance premiums, disability insurance, life insurance, an expense account and a retirement plan.

He also has the use of a town-owned 2000 Buick LeSabre, only his second car in 14 years as town manager.

Selectman Alex Vispoli said

Stapczynski's pay falls in the middle range of salaries for managers in comparable communities.

With the raise, Stapczynski makes the same salary as the longtime town manager of Concord, Christopher Whalen; $20,000 more than North Andover Town Manager Mark Rees; and about $7,000 less than town managers in several of the communities to which Andover compares itself.

While selectmen called him the town's chief executive officer, Stapczynski is not its highest-paid employee. School Superintendent Claudia L. Bach earns $131,644 per year.

It's summer...and, I'm still learning!

We hear this all the time. To our students, summers offer an opportunity to improve and get a headstart on the next school year. Most work to strengthen basic skills, while others attend Huntington in order to "get ahead." In some cases, parents merely want their child to avoid getting rusty over the long vacation.

How can we meet the needs of so many different students? First, we design programs to address the specific needs of each child. Then, our certified teachers provide personal attention and individualized instruction, sprinkled with encouragement and praise. As a result, our students improve their skills...and their self-confidence soars.

Give us a call...we can put a smile on your child's face...and get him or her ready for the next school year!

WHERE ARE WE NOW ON CENTERS?

By Neil Fater

SENIOR CENTER

After more than three years of work, the Senior Center Task Force and its selectmen liaison Mary Lyman came to April Town Meeting with a solid plan for a new downtown senior center. Noting that the town has more than 5,000 residents aged 60 and older, the group had looked at 14 parcels of land before selecting a site and designing the facility. Supporters sought $7.6 million for a nearly 28,000-square-foot building on Bartlet Street, next to Doherty Middle School.

Fewer than 500 people supported the plan at Town Meeting. The vote failed, 451-249, because a two-thirds vote is needed on projects paid through debt-exclusion overrides of Proposition 2½. Had Town Meeting approved the project, another vote – a special election – would have been needed. Special elections typically attract thousands of residents and are considered more difficult to pass.

While the Town Meeting rejection stung many senior supporters, not all are ready to abandon the plan. Dorothy Bresnahan, former Council on Aging chairwoman, has collected enough signatures to call a Special Town Meeting in the fall for residents to reconsider building the new senior center. The plan itself would not change, but Bresnahan says there will be several differences in how the plan is presented.

First, Bresnahan says, supporters will be able to give a complete presentation of the plan, which did not happen in April. She also expects supporters to have more time to answer questions and offer positive comments. While most voters did not hear that the Wood family trust would donate $800,000 to the senior center cause until it was announced on the floor of April Town Meeting, this information would be well known by next fall, potentially influencing votes. Finally, Bresnahan wants Special Town Meeting to gather on a Saturday afternoon, with residents able to sit in the padded seats of the Collins Center. She believes this will attract more seniors to vote.

The design for a new senior center on Bartlet Street, to replace the current center on the bottom floor of the school administration building.

YOUTH CENTER

The current plan for a youth center calls for a private group, the Andover Youth Foundation, to build a new center off Ledge Road in West Andover. Once the facility is built, it would be turned over to Andover and become a town-operated center.

The foundation has raised about $3.2 million, less than it needs to build the center it designed, and fund-raising has slowed. The current deal between the town and AYF calls for AYF to break ground by June 2006. Foundation President Larry Larsen says the group should be able to meet this deadline by altering its plan and eliminating a large room such as the planned gymnasium.

However, Larsen recently told selectmen AYF would be willing to delay construction if selectmen were interested in Andover pursuing the idea of a community center. Larsen said he believes the money raised for a youth center could be used to help build a community center. Most youth center supporters also admit they would prefer to see a youth center in the downtown area, if space was made available. The suggestion of delaying the youth center effort to see if a community center is a viable idea has prompted the June 29 selectmen's meeting aimed at discussing the future path for Andover centers.

One of the issues with the current youth center plan is that developer Yvon Cormier has bought the naming rights to the facility with a donation of $1.5 million. If this money was to be used for a community center, Larsen says the youth component would still need to be named for Cormier's family.

COMMUNITY CENTER

While users of existing youth and senior center programs often seem to be the strongest supporters of building separate facilities, those who do not use either center seem frequently to support the concept of a community center.

The idea of such a center has been floated many times over the years, most recently prior to this year's senior center effort at Town Meeting. Following Town Meeting, Selectman Brian Major met with a group of residents to discuss the idea, which he supports.

The typical model for a community center has involved having separate, dedicated space for both seniors and youth on each end of the building, with shared space – such as a large function room – in the middle. But there has never been an actual plan for a community center.

Some ideas for altered community centers have been floated recently. Larsen and Jerry Silverman, AYF members and former selectmen, have discussed the idea of building the private youth center next to Doherty Middle. After the center is given to the town, space could be made available to seniors and additional space for seniors could be added, they suggested. This week, Bresnahan suggested building the senior center as planned, with a promise to convert it into a community center 10 or 15 years later, if such a center is still wanted by residents.

Trend: Andover reducing trash, saving cash

Andover's effort to reduce trash waste seems to be working. According to an update from Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, residents seem to be throwing away less trash this year, with rubbish costs down 10 percent for the month of May and down 2.4 percent for the year to date.

The one problem area seems to be cardboard recycling. Cardboard should not be thrown away. Residents must cut their cardboard into pieces no larger than two feet square, basically the size of a pizza box.

15 GOING ON 50 (MILES THAT IS)

by Tim Wacker

When asked why he was joining 15 of his fellow eighth-graders on a 50-mile, round-trip bike trek from Andover to Salisbury Beach Saturday, Eli Grober summed it up this way.

"Because we have no life," he said.

That wasn't exactly the explanation West Middle School gymnastics coach Stephen Sirois used when organizing the junket a few weeks back. But it does get to the heart of a problem many teens face when they look for something to do and find nothing.

"It's all about giving kids an adventure," Sirois said. "At this age, they need an adventure. At this age, they are always so excited, they always want to do things, they want to try things."

But it's not always the right things, which also is a reason Sirois organized the trip. Grober and his schoolmates are heading to high school, that threshold to adulthood that comes complete with temptations like smoking, drinking and drugs.

They are just another form of adventure, Sirois said. The trick for kids is knowing which to choose, and the trick for their parents is giving them a choice, he said. "No one is born a cigarette smoker; it's the adventure that lures kids to smoke," he said. "Buying the cigarettes and hiding them. Keeping the smell off your breath. It's all an adventure."

So, Sirois suggested another adventure to his son, Jeff, 14. A bike trip. Not a pedal across town, a trek across the Merrimack Valley.

Jeff loved the idea and was soon signing up his classmates as his father made preparations. Andover Safety Officer Robert Cronin gave the kids a tutorial on bike safety Thursday and the group pushed off from the police station at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Before the kids departed, nervous parents adjusted helmet straps and Sirois topped off the tires with a bicycle pump. The kids joked back and forth about their pending mission and it was clear that Sirois' logic, while not apparent, was not completely lost on them either.

"The adventure is hoping to make it there," said Matt Murray, 14. "I've biked to school, maybe 18 or 20 miles before, but never 50."

"I think it will be fun," added Justin Martin, 15. "We're going out boys and we're coming back men."

"It pushes the kids to let them think on their own and be responsible," said Charlie Miceli, whose 13-year-old son Gianni signed up for the trek. "They have to be responsible, and focused out there. Plus it brings a bunch of kids together for a mission."

Improving the flow of traffic through the downtown is a significant goal of the redesign of Main Street. The town has put its final plan before the state.

the minds of a lot of people on the committee, along with improved traffic flow and compliance with Americans with Disabilities Act," said Clifford Markell, Main Street Committee chairman. "Along with all that, was the chance to improve the aesthetics of the area."

Selectmen approved proposed changes to the Andover traffic rules on Monday night, following a presentation by Andover resident David Giangrande, president of Design Consultants Inc. of Somerville, the firm responsible for the project.

The plan includes reversing the flow of traffic on Post Office Avenue, a one-way street. In addition to traffic changes, the project includes adding cobblestones, upgraded benches and lampposts fashioned to resemble gas lanterns. There will also be new traffic signals, sidewalks, handicapped accessibility, signs, street lights and curbs.

The town manager has signed the plan, and any future changes that Andover proposes will first need to be approved by Mass Highway.

Markell said that, although the project plans have been complete for some time, the town has been waiting for Mass Highway to come up with the funds to begin construction for at least three years. "There was no money to fund it from the state,"

he said.

The state will contribute approximately $2.5 million to the project, based on inflation, said Markell, and the town has contributed $573,500.

State funding is allocated on the basis of the fiscal calendar and if all goes well, said Markell, Mass Highway should be putting the project out for bid this fall. Giangrande forecasts that construction will begin in the spring of 2006.

Giangrande, according to Markell, is the driving force behind the project. Markell said Giangrande spearheaded the Main Street project for the town, working with the state to get the grant money.

"It's going to be a really good project for the town. It'll enhance the area tremendously," said Gammie.

The Main Street Committee will continue its work with the project, said Markell. Although members are done with the review process, "we'll act as a resource to Buzz to communicate with businesses in the central business district" as the project progresses.

According to Markell, between one-third and one-half of the project funds are being spent on updated and improved timed traffic signals aimed at improving the flow of traffic through town.

Cell phone helps find lost walker

The state police department's GPS navigation system helped a lost woman walking in the woods to be safely guided to the Andover police officers who were called to search for her.

The incident happened last Tuesday, June 14, just after 4 p.m., when a 911 call came into the Andover Police Station from the state police. According to the incident report, a woman was walking in the Avon Reservation when she got lost.

"She reports she was walking a trail and eventually the trail became less and less and she didn't know where she was," the police report on the incident stated.

She used her cell phone to call for help. The GPS navigation system showed she was across Fosters Pond, near the area of Willard Circle.

Andover police Officer Glen Ota drove to Willard Circle and sounded his siren. Andover police officer Daniel Leonard walked into the woods while Ota drove his mountain bike into the woods. The walker eventually heard the siren and walked in the direction of the sound. She then saw Leonard and was reported to be OK.

Summer challenges

ANDOVER IS HEADING INTO SUMMER with important issues for leaders to address.

Kudos to the selectmen for holding a special meeting next Wednesday to discuss interest in senior, youth and community centers. Following the defeat at Town Meeting of a new senior center, many supporters of that plan were hurt by the town's rejection. Supporters of different ideas have been jockeying for position since then. Addressing these issues can only help to set the course for the town. It is a difficult challenge to get significant numbers of people pulling their oars in the same direction on this issue, but one worthy of town leaders.

Andover's new school business manager will also have his hands full. On Tuesday, the School Committee hired 2.5 additional teachers for next year – and said it could need five more at Andover High School – but members are not sure where they'll find the money to pay for them.

The problem at the high school is the School Committee expected 40 teachers to tackle an extra course in exchange for a $4,000 stipend. This option was built into the teachers' new contract as a compromise: teachers would receive a 9.29 percent raise over three years, while the system saved some money by not hiring more teachers. School Committee member David Samuels believes the union is discouraging teachers from accepting the offer to teach three classes each semester.

Hopefully teachers or retirees who want some extra cash will volunteer for the assignment. If not, the new school business manager will prove his worth early by finding the least invasive way to pay for the new teachers.

Web question

How to fill AHS teacher gap?

Last week's Andover Townsman Web-site question was: "Do you think the state should reinstate the matching rent escrow program for affordable housing residents that they started in 2001 but canceled in 2002?" 21 people responded.

- 6, or 29 percent, said, "Yes, because it's a great way to help people save who are not otherwise able to afford a home."

- No one said, "Yes, for another reason."

- 11, or 52 percent, said, "No, we don't need a government agency in charge of this. If people want to save money, they should do it on their own."

- No one said, "No, for another reason."

- 3, or 14 percent, said, "The state should bring back the program, matching less of the funding, given the times."

- 1, or 5 percent, said, "Other."

This week's Andover Townsman Web-site question is about how the School Committee had hoped to save money by offering a $4,000 stipend to teachers who would take on another 82-minute course at Andover High. This would allow Andover to avoid hiring new teachers. The committee hoped 40 teachers would voluntarily sign up, but few have. What should the School Committee do about the lackluster response?

- Drop the plan. It was a sound financial idea, but it didn't go over with teachers.

- Push for more support from teachers. The plan must be implemented for financial reasons.

- There's nothing the town can do because the committee agreed to this contract. If teachers don't accept the cash-to-teach-more deal, the town will have to cut elsewhere.

- Remember this next contract season.

- Other.

The weeding march

Neil Fater

For Andover kids, tomorrow, Friday, might be the most awaited day of the year. It's the last day of school.

When I was still roaming Andover hallways, I think I longed for two days: Christmas and the end of the school year.

Nowadays, I realize which is better for kids. Christmas is really one spectacular day followed by three months of miserable New England weather and six months of school.

The inimitable last day of school, however, marked the beginning of nine weeks of sun-soaking, frisbee-throwing, whiffle-ball chasing freedom. It signaled the beginning of hotdog season. Bikes. Beaches. Swimming.

Across from the North Andover Mall on Route 114 was a little-used Holiday Inn. For about $200 the owner would let local families use its swimming pool, volleyball court and other facilities for the entire summer. It was heaven.

And only one thing blocked its pearly gates – chores.

Until my sister and I finished vacuuming or cleaning our rooms or some daily task, we could not get a ride to the pool. The worst assignment of all was spending a hot morning weeding under and around our parents' prickly groundcover, where ants loved to hide. Weeds were the enemy, blocking the route to summer fun. But once they were vanquished, the day was ours.

Unfortunately, today, life is quite different. And nothing makes that fact more obvious to me than this: Friday is not just the last day of school in Andover, it is the one-year anniversary of my buying my first home.

Oh sure, people warned me that this affliction – homeownership – would come with terrible side effects. But I had no idea the myopia would be so pronounced. I did not know I'd start seeing a good weekend as one during which I completed a large number of chores. Ever since we had about six straight weekends of rain, I have started looking forward to weekends where I could do things such as mow the lawn and – gulp! – weed. The ants don't even slow me down.

My younger self might take one look at me and spit on my shoes in disgust. Of course he'd do this after wondering why I was wearing shoes in the first place. Can't say I'd blame him. When did the goal of washing enough laundry to get me through the next week replace eating enough cotton candy to make me sick for a week?

I don't know, but I plan to think back to my school days for inspiration on how I can better use my summer. In some ways, I was a lot wiser then.

So to the kids I expect to see running through the streets on Friday, throwing papers in the air, I have one thing to say: We who are about to weed salute you.

LETTERS

Town educators make the grade

Editor, Townsman:

As parents of a recently graduated Andover High senior and a soon-to-graduate West Middle School eighth-grader, we find June a time to reflect on our children's education in Andover. Our family had a very positive experience at Sanborn Elementary School. When your child has a single classroom teacher and specialists working with him or her throughout the year, there are many face-to-face opportunities to acknowledge teachers' work. Both our children were fortunate to have some excellent teachers in middle school, and we are grateful to the West Middle School faculty and staff, too.

As our son heads off to college and our daughter is about to begin her high school career, we especially want to acknowledge everyone at AHS. These professionals, some of whom are retiring, are prepared, accomplished and inspiring teachers. They create challenging new courses and continue to refine others they have previously taught. They pursue their own professional development through coursework, publication and projects. They are the majority of educators at our high school. Most importantly, they know and care about their students' learning. Their dedication to public education is the backbone of our democracy.

Kickball and life lessons stick with Silva's students

Editor, Townsman:

I saw in the June 9 Townsman that Dave Silva is retiring this year. Our family is sad to see him go, but happy that he is now retired.

When we moved to Andover and attended South Elementary School, Silva was the physical education teacher. He taught us at a young age to be athletic, kind to other students and competitive when attending his class. He brought the kids through the halls of South School from our previous classes to the gymnasium, making sure there was a straight and quiet line. He put us through the physical education tests and made my brother and two sisters learn the value of good sportsmanship, and to be proud to be an Andover student/athlete.

Silva would always flex his right knee while pacing the gym as he threw the ball at the wall just above our heads to make sure we were all listening to his instruction. I found out years later he had a bad knee.

We always looked forward to the annual sixth grade teachers versus students kickball match, which symbolized our elementary school graduation. This was back in 1987. I recently taught an after-school volleyball program where I observed Silva teaching the same skills to the kids at Doherty Middle School. It was like I never left and Silva had never changed.

On behalf of my family, and I am sure the other students who were lucky to have Silva as our physical education teacher, I wish Silva a relaxing and enjoyable retirement. Whenever I walk through an Andover gym, the smell is still the same and the voice of Silva will always remain. We learned a lot from him about life and about sports.

Daniel Michelini and Thomas Platt have been granted virtual licenses by the selectmen.

Monday evening, June 27, a strawberry festival will be held by Indian Ridge and the Lodge of Rebekahs.

Frederick W. Whittemore, who is in the employ of the Westinghouse Co. in Pittsburgh, has been sent to St. Louis to run the steam turbine in their exhibit at the Exposition, and will probably remain there throughout the Fair.

Mr. George W. Low of Pynchard School will spend the summer as one of a party of geologists camping in the mountains of Wyoming and South Dakota. He has been granted a scholarship by Harvard to do advanced work in geology.

Charles Richardson, who has been dealing in butter, eggs, canned goods, etc., for some time, has discontinued his business and has accepted a position with a grocery firm in Reading. Mr. Richardson has also given up the position of sexton of the Free Church.

Mr. George Babcock was thrown from his wagon and severely bruised. He applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely and says it is the best liniment he has ever used. Mr. Babcock is a well-known citizen of Andover. There is nothing equal to Pain Balm for sprains and bruises. It will effect a cure in one third the time required by any other treatment. For sale by All Druggists, Lawrence.

25 Years Ago — 1980

The architect for conversion of Doherty School into a junior high has recommended the building be kept open throughout the construction period of more than two years, to prevent vandalism and deterioration of the building.

Wendy Frontiero, preservation planner for the Andover Historical Commission, will be retained for an additional month at a cost of $1,200 to study possible reuses of Stowe School, the town manager told the School Building Committee last Thursday.

Citizen action has worked in Shawsheen. Federal, state and town officials urge and support citizen action to deal with local problems and to bring about local improvements. On June 14, 1980 the town and the residents of Shawsheen Village will, to a large degree, be celebrating a citizen's action success story. Shawsheen Village is a National Historic District because a large group of local residents got together to accomplish that goal.

The selectmen closed the public hearing on a gravel removal permit for the Andover Country Club subdivision Monday night but voted to delay their decision on the permit until June 23.

The Andover Companies and James Abramson were honored by the Andover Chamber of Commerce at its 18th annual dinner Wednesday night at the Indian Ridge Country Club.

10 Years Ago — 1995

After years of frustration over the condition of its schools, the School Committee directed the superintendent Tuesday to develop a plan that will allow the school system to maintain its own buildings. Such a change would require a major shake-up of the town's maintenance department because 75 percent of Andover's buildings are school buildings.

After enduring round after round of proposals over the past decade for a 71-acre property near Den Rock Park, neighbors have joined together with the hope of having something besides homes, golf courses or factories built at the site. "We're definitely interested in having the property used for conservation land," neighbors said.

Lorraine Greenfield, the first of four finalists for the West Middle School principal position, will arrive at West Middle today and be available to meet parents at 2:45 p.m.

Surprises come into two distinct varieties — pleasant and unwanted. Just ask those involved with the school construction projects. While South School workers have been pleasantly surprised by the condition of that building, High School workers have repeatedly run into unexpected problems. The most recent of these issues was a need to strengthen the existing gymnasium's foundation, a task that will delay the Andover High project about a week.

Assistant Minority Whip Gary Coon, R-Andover, will join Lt. Gov. Paul Cellucci and Secretary of Economic Affairs Gloria Larson on a nine-day trade mission to Taiwan and Vietnam.

Selectmen Monday night pushed Andover's senior citizens to get moving on expanding the Senior Center in its current location, and to stop waiting for the schools to make them a better offer to build elsewhere. "Other options may be there, but they're not being considered at this point," Chairmen Larry Larsen said after the meeting. By a 4-0 vote, the board passed a motion recommending seniors halt looking at any other options and proceed with the proposal approved at April Town Meeting.

Selectmen Monday night directed the town counsel to look into what obstacles would need to be overcome for the town to consider acquiring part of the Rose Champy property, undeveloped land off Sterling Street.

Because of the shortage of playing fields in town, youth sports league representatives are not as worried about whether teams win or lose as they are about where teams will play their games. That may soon change. In fact, following a meeting this afternoon, Thursday, Andover may be a few steps closer to deciding where to place the three new fields approved at Town Meeting.

Offering no major opposition to a proposed funeral home in the downtown area, planners Tuesday night waived a special permit requirement for renovation at the site.

At its meeting on June 6, the Conservation Commission inched a step closer to issuing an order of conditions to allow Eisai Merrimack Valley Laboratories to purchase 100 Federal St. and begin construction of a $35 million micro-plant.

Desperate Parents wanted

They come to her show... to laugh

By Judy Wakefield

IT WAS A PERFORMANCE by young kids about flowers. There was the oh-so-happy Morning Gloria on stage alongside Snap Dragon who was just plain snappy, impatiently telling her friends in the garden to hurry up and grow faster.

Two boys were weed characters who thought the coast was clear and so they started growing - until they got caught in a rake.

By now, parents in the audience are laughing - and Andover director Penny Kohut is raking in another successful show. Hers is an entertaining style where her audience of parents have the most laughs.

She manages a Lawrence-based stage company on Island Street called Acting Out! Theater Workshop. She runs it with two others - Linda Schoonmaker and Jeff Workman, both of North Andover.

The company has adult actors who performed Neil Simon's Plaza Suite earlier this month.

"A hilarious comedy - what else?" is what this funny lady said about that show, which she directed.

But it's a kid's focus that drives her as she likes to write very funny, short shows accompanied by gimmicky lyrics, while young actors - between the ages of 5 and 13 - do the performing. The kids often don't get the humor, but the parents sure do. And that's what is unique about the style. Kohut-directed shows never forget the parents in the audience.

She also performs a musical show for kids called "Desperate Parents" and she has been at several local public libraries, including Memorial Hall Library. Word of her talent certainly got around in Stoneham as resident and former Olympic skater Nancy Kerrigan hired her to sing and perform at her son's birthday party.

"I was in front of like 300 people when I appeared in Medford and - let's face it - I know no adult was paying attention... but my show is a break for them because I entertain their kids so they can schmooze or laugh - and that's fine with me," says this bubbly and very energetic Andover mother of a 7-year-old.

She's got a once-a-month gig at Andover's Senior Center where she sings a lot of Broadway tunes as she takes folks for a stroll down memory lane.

Kohut is a professional singer and accomplished actress who has appeared locally with the Pentucket Players. She graduated from New York University, where she studied cabaret theater. But she knew jobs in that field were scarce so she switched to business.

Her plan was to sensibly launch some sort of music-based business that she enjoyed. And she has.

She started teaching music to preschoolers when she moved to town several years ago. But it soon clicked that all those mothers of preschoolers could use a good laugh. The observation mirrored Kohut's life as she, too, often felt somewhat desperate for a laugh when her daughter was young.

This ex-Manhattanite didn't know a soul when she moved to her new house on Princeton Avenue. Her husband's job brought her to the Boston area. Then came his layoff and the job search. He was eventually hired by IBM in another state but Kohut did not want to move again. The couple's daughter was settled nicely in Andover while Kohut's acting studio in Lawrence was blossoming.

"I love what I do," she said, so this couple sees each other on weekends for the time being.

"It's tough; no doubt about it," she says of the commuting marriage.

That's when a good laugh can help, so she writes funny shows with rhymes and lots of G-rated silly humor that gets all those coffee-sipping moms at her shows laughing.

Her must-have prop for "Itsy Bitsy Spider" is a spray water bottle so kids can feel it when she sings the line "Down came the rain..."

Her opening line at the "Desperate Parents" show is usually, "I have one rule: Behave - don't!"

"I just want the kids entertained and to make the parents laugh," she said. "I'm all about everyone having fun."

Acting Out!

Kohut met her Acting Out! partners through her Pentucket Players connections and says the trio clicked from the moment they met. While Workman handles the piano and other instruments, Schoonmaker handles costume and set design along with the writing.

"We have the same sense of humor and just hit it off," Schoonmaker, a mother of three, said. "It's all about the kids... that's most important to us."

So there are never any tryouts for Acting Out! shows. If you want to be in a show, you simply show up.

"We've had really shy kids show up who just wanted to try theater. And they're great," Schoonmaker said.

"We call it Acting Out! moments, when we realize why this is so important. When you see a shy kid on stage for the first time, doing a great job, it's a good feeling," said Kohut, who also finds time to lead a Brownie troop at Shawsheen School.

The two moms teamed up with a show about money that had characters named yen and franc while the featured music was "We're on the money" by the costumed Susan B. Anthony and Abe Lincoln actors. Their Ant Misbehavin' show featured a debutante ant who wore a fancy hat, and an anteater. The show opened with the ant characters crawling out of an oversized picnic basket on stage.

The group's "Page to Stage" summer program for kids features performances based on the summer book list furnished by the Andover Public Schools. That's all about getting kids to read while showing them a good time on stage.

"We don't do traditional," Schoonmaker laughed, while Kohut said, "We just tell the kids to do their best. Theater experiences don't have to be terrifying."

Battling bands back at Palmer's

Andover's Brickman Experience first-up this Sunday

By Judy Wakefield

A GOOD-SIZED CROWD of about 50 people turned out at Palmer's for the first round of the high school battle of the bands last month.

The event is up again this Sunday afternoon as the restaurant's bartender has pledged to help high school bands get some notice.

These bands are being showcased once a month on Sundays at Palmer's when the restaurant is closed.

Bartender Russ Croteau has organized the event, which takes place Sunday, June 26 from 1 to 4:30 p.m. The Andover-based band The Steven Brickman Experience opens the show.

The band Eco Earth is set to follow. Both will play for about an hour. The third band was not announced as of Townsmen preptime.

Croteau said those who like the saxophone will like The Steven Brickman Experience.

Last month, listeners enjoyed the Simon-and-Garfunkel feel of the high school band Harper. The audience voted for their favorite band and Harper won, Croteau said. Listeners will vote again this Sunday as the battle continues.

"There was excitement in the air," he said of the May 22 kickoff. "People really want to support high school musicians."

Croteau certainly does, as his 15-year-old son, Joshua, is a drummer in a high school band. Finding venues is difficult for high-school bands and that is what prompted Croteau to help.

He's been at Palmer's for the past nine years and worked out the Sunday showcase schedule with the management. He sent out flyers to the music departments at area high schools about his battle-of-the-bands plan, and got a pretty good response.

There will be appetizers served and the bar will be open at this Sunday's event.

Admission is free and the public is welcome.

The event is for high school bands only. Anyone interested in having their band in the showcase can call Croteau at 978-470-1606.

The traditional ribbon-cutting ceremony at Shapiro at 7:30 p.m. marks the official opening of the festival. The $10 preview ticket permits entry to the opening events at both Plumley and Shapiro. The exhibits and merchant malls are open Friday-Sunday, June 24-26.

From its humble beginnings as a one-day exhibit as part of Northfield's Labor Day celebration, the Vermont Quilt Festival has grown to feature more than 400 quilts on display including several special exhibits and the 200 contest quilts, whose makers hail from the U.S., Canada and beyond.

The contest entrants include Betsy Abbott of Andover.

The festival offers a collection of special exhibits of nearly 400 breathtaking new and antique quilts, some 75 lectures and workshops with nationally known quilt artists, special classes for young quilters, and a colorful display of wares in its merchant malls.

Appraisals of antique and contemporary quilts take place on Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Roberts Hall.

The $30 fee includes a written appraisal and photo.

New England's oldest and largest quilt event, the Vermont Quilt Festival draws a record number of visitors each year, organizers said, and continues to offer something for everyone while maintaining its small town charm in the heart of the Green Mountains.

The festival is open to the public Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Daily admission is $8; seniors $7; and children under 14, free. For more information, e-mail info@vqf.org; visit www.vqf.org; or call 802-485-7092.

IN BRIEF

Mass. Eye & Ear recognizes Guilmet

The Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary presented Nancie Guilmet, a resident of Andover, with the James Schneider Memorial Scholarship.

The James Schneider Memorial Scholarship addresses its namesake's concerns about developing patient-care services through education and association with other related health professions.

Guilmet has been an employee at the Infirmary for two years. "She has been an attendee of several in-house education programs and has assisted at staff meetings. She is a dedicated employee who is an advocate for customer-service and is devoted to safe nursing practice," said Carol Covell, executive vice president of patient services.

Founded in 1824, Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary is an independent specialty hospital providing patient care for disorders of the eye, ear, nose, throat, head and neck. A teaching partner of Harvard Medical School, the Infirmary is known internationally for ophthalmology and otolaryngology research.

Norris is VP of investor relations

MatrixOne Inc., a provider of collaborative product lifecycle management solutions, has announced that former Andover resident Brian Norris has been promoted to vice president of investor relations.

Brian Norris

Norris is responsible for leading the strategic investor relations function for the software company with additional responsibilities in the areas of corporate strategy and business development, competitive financial analysis, financial planning, and corporate communications. Before joining MatrixOne in 2001 as the company's director of investor relations, Norris led IR programs for several high-tech and industrial companies including CMGI and Colonial Gas Co.

He holds an MBA from Bentley College and a bachelor's degree in finance from the University of Massachusetts. He is a member of the board of directors for the Boston Chapter of the National Investor Relations Institute.

Norris lives with his wife and their four children in North Andover.

Nursing-excellence honor for Wilkes

Nursing Spectrum, an RN-focused multimedia organization, has announced the 2005 New England regional winners of its annual Nursing Excellence Awards.

Gail Wilkes

Nursing Spectrum solicited nominations for 2005 Nursing Excellence Awards in six categories, and more than a hundred nominations were received.

In the category of teaching, given to "RNs who have made significant contributions in education, professional development, and/or long-term learning of nursing professionals," Andover resident Gail Wilkes, RN, MS, ANP, AONC, and a clinical instructor at Boston Medical Center tied in this category - honoring the most extraordinary nurses in the New England area - with a staff nurse at Children's Hospital at Dartmouth in Lebanon, N.H.

All regional winners will be eligible for Nursing Spectrum's National Nurse of the Year Awards, to be presented this fall.

A Jones for satisfaction, says study

The financial-services firm Edward Jones has been ranked first in J.D. Power and Associates' annual survey of customer satisfaction among full-service investors, according to Chie Gens, an Edward Jones investment representative in Andover. The ranking, released as the 2005 Full-Service Investor Satisfaction Study, ranked Edward Jones ahead of 19 other firms.

"I'm thrilled about our placement on the J.D. Power and Associates ranking," said Gens. "We are committed to providing the highest level of service to our clients. Everything we do is focused on building and maintaining strong relationships."

The 2005 Full-Service Investor Satisfaction Study, conducted in January and February, was based on responses from more than 6,600 investors who primarily invest with one of the 20 firms in the study.

Owners Tim Tran and his fiancée Moony Le in Lee Nails II, a new nail salon in Shawsheen Plaza.

Settling into a cozy nail salon

Customers treated like "part of owners' extended family"

By Greta Cuyler

LOW-HANGING GOLDEN LIGHTS are suspended from the ceiling. Six state-of-the-art nail stations, and four pedicure stations each equipped with a shiatsu massage chair and full whirlpool bath, are ready for use. Each is new and was chosen with care by Moony Le, co-owner of Lee Nails II, a new Andover salon in Shawsheen Plaza.

Tim Tran and his fiancée Moony Le do not want residents to think of their new business as another nail place.

"We're a salon, not a nail shop," says Tran. "When you come in here, it doesn't smell like a nail place."

If anything, it might smell like coffee.

Customers sip french roast coffee while reclining on the Italian-designed, Jetson-inspired orange divan.

Tran and Le opened the doors of Lee Nails II for business on March 20. It is the sister salon of Lee Nails on Route 114 in Middleton, run by Le's brother and sister-in-law, Andy and Minh, for the past 10 years.

The Andover owners say their family business wants to embrace customers as members of their extended family. "Basically they're our friends. We like them to think they're coming to a family place," says Tran.

That philosophy seems to be working for Leeann Blais of Lawrence. "I've gone to a lot of places to get my nails done. This place is so clean. I won't look for anywhere else," she says.

Blais is getting a manicure and pedicure, and the nail on her pinky finger has been hand-painted with a ladybug design by nail technician Jennifer Nguyen. "They do a great job," says Blais.

Tran believes that what makes his salon different is the time spent on client services. Manicures take between 20 and 25 minutes, and pedicures 40 to 45 minutes, he says. "We don't rush. We take the time to do our service," says Tran, adding that he and Le want to "stay here for a long time."

Tran and Le's new location has appeal for customers who used to make the trek to Middleton, says Tran. He estimates that their business is partially composed of former Middleton clients who can now access the Route 28 location more easily.

"People have known my family for a long time," said Tran.

Andy Le, Tran's future brother-in-law, chose the Shawsheen Plaza location nearly five years ago, anticipating growth in Andover. The 1,200-square-foot space opened up earlier this year when an eyeglass office closed.

Tran, who has a background in computer science, has been working full-time in the family business for the past 18 months. His fiancée has spent five years in the nail business. "We know what our customers want," says Tran.

Tran and his fiancée grew up just a mile from each other in Vietnam, but never knew each other. It was not until she took a vacation to Bloomington, Minn. several years ago that Le and Tran met through Tran's best friend.

Although they have not yet set a date for their wedding, chances are it will not be on a Thursday, Friday, Saturday or Sunday. Those are the busiest days for the salon, according to Tran, who says they serve up to 25 clients on Sundays.

In the warm, early days of summer, manicures and pedicures are the order of the day, says Tran, while full sets of nails are in demand during the winter months.

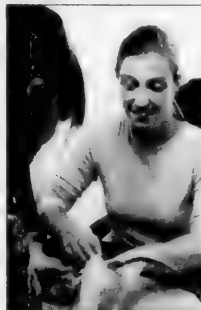

Customers are treated to a full two-week guarantee on nail chipping and may return for a free fix during that time. Students with identification get $5 off services.

Manicures cost $15, while pedicures cost $30.

All clients receive their own nail buffer and file at the time of their first visit, and that same file and buffer is used every time they return to the salon.

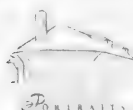

The salon's best kept secret? They have male clients. "They're kind of shy, but once they come in, they love it, want to come back," says Tran.

Lee Nails II is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Brooke Burdick has her nails done at Lee Nails II.

PROTECT YOUR HAIR FROM SUN AND POOL WATER

Your hair and skin are closely related, and your hair needs protection from the sun's damaging ultraviolet rays every bit as much as your skin does. Otherwise, it will show the same drying and texture-altering effects. Before you head outdoors, apply a product to your hair that contains a physical sunblock, such as micronized zinc or titanium dioxide, both of which reflect harmful rays. If you are headed for the beach or to a pool, be sure to waterproof your hair before swimming. Your hair will absorb less chlorine (which can turn processed blonde hair green) and saltwater if you wet it prior to taking the plunge. Better yet, coat it with a protective leave-in conditioner.

This summer, keep your hair looking its best! In addition to protecting your hair from damaging UV rays, chlorine, and saltwater, it is essential to visit your stylist for regular trims and special treatments. At HAIR WITH INN, we can help you keep your hair at its healthiest all summer long. We offer a wide array of top-quality products to help protect your hair and skin. Located at the Andover Inn, 4 Chapel Avenue, our friendly, knowledgeable stylists have years of experience and the latest in salon treatments and hairstyles. Call us at (978) 475-9779 to schedule an appointment.

HINT: If you drive a convertible, keep your hair under a scarf or hat to protect it from UV rays and drying wind damage.

As a class project, eighth-grade students at Doherty Middle School painted their silhouettes and filled them with favorite sayings.

Tracing their legacy is easy

By Meredith L. Mooney

EIGHTH-GRADERS at Doherty Middle School will leave behind their legacy in a visible way tomorrow — through their silhouettes painted on the wall.

Since 1989, it has been a tradition at Doherty for the eighth-grade class to paint a mural as a school memento. At the suggestion of art teacher Brian Stevens, this year's class decided to draw the silhouette of each member on the wall of one of the school's long corridors. Within the gray figures that are outlined in bright, warm colors, the students have written their favorite quotations.

Doherty's mural tradition began with what is affectionately known as "The Store Wall." The painting of the storefront of a fruit and vegetable store labeled with the school's address was created by the eighth-grade class of 1989. In the following years, the favorite quotes and the participation of each class member also became part of the tradition.

According to Stevens, who has been the art teacher at Doherty for seven years, "This is the first time that everyone has been on board." The members of this year's class, which Stevens describes as "a great group of really wonderful kids," have been exceptionally involved and enthusiastic about the mural. During its creation, many students chose to stay after school to work on the class project. "All the students were actively engaged. They wanted to be here and doing this," Stevens said.

The mural should be a popular attraction tomorrow, Friday, June 24, the day of Doherty's eighth-grade graduation. After the ceremony, students will lead their parents to the mural and proudly show them their legacy at Doherty: the quotes written on their silhouettes.

BOOK REVIEW

Watership Down

BY RICHARD ADAMS

Reviewed by John Chantler and James Caron

This is the first in a series of three book reviews John and James will be writing, involving the elusive adventure of the Animal Kingdom.

WATERSHIP DOWN is the story of a group of rabbits fighting for survival. But don't be fooled by that wimpy sounding plot. This book is filled with as much action, conflict and character development as any most people will ever read.

Although he might not know it, Fiver is a prophet. He foresees great danger coming to his group's warren (community). In an effort to save his home, Fiver and his older brother, Hazel, attempt to convince the Chief Rabbit, or Threarah, of this danger — but to no avail. As a last resort, Fiver and Hazel, together with nine other rabbits, leave the warren in search of a safer home.

The excitement begins here. From this point on, the story is filled with the adventures and mishaps that come with being in a strange and foreign place. The rabbits travel through many warrens (friendly or otherwise), and encounter many foes and villains before they finally come to the Watership Down. Even then, the true adventure is just beginning.

Despite the, shall we say, "mild" choice of character species, this book is written for young adults. Even an experienced reader will be challenged by its vocabulary. That said, it is an excellent "stretch" book, and will certainly entertain people as they read. Along with this advanced selection of words is an astoundingly vivid set of descriptions that enhance the story many times over.

Watership Down is considered by many to be what's called an extended metaphor for things to come in America, or perhaps the world. Its seemingly pessimistic prophetic warnings can be interpreted in many ways, but the true meanings (if any) are only known to the author.

Watership Down is one of James's favorite books, and it is easy to see why. For this reason we give Watership Down a nine out of 10. The 10th point was withheld for one reason and one reason only — at times the author gets a little bogged down in minute details that the reader doesn't really care about. But who knows, some readers might kind of like it when he rambles!

Overall, the author's writing style is smooth and sophisticated, and the dialogue adds dimension and personifies the characters very realistically (at least we think this is how a rabbit would talk). By the end of the book we promise readers will feel as if they know each one personally.

From the first page, Watership Down grips readers and it doesn't let go. It will leave them wanting more. For this reason, we also recommend Tales From Watership Down, a second book in this particular series. Clearly, this set of short stories is not as good as the original book, but nevertheless it is still worth reading for those who enjoy the first volume in this series.

So head down to a local bookstore or library and pick up a copy of Watership Down or Tales From Watership Down by Richard Adams.

If you happen to pass through a warren full of rabbits, don't panic. You never know what a little mystery and adventure will get you into now and then!

Award in 2003 and studied in Russia for his 2003 fall semester.

Jennifer Aronson, daughter of Anita and Ron Aronson of Teaberry Lane, has been initiated into Kappa Delta Pi at the University of Massachusetts Amherst.

Aronson is a member of the class of 2005 majoring in an individual concentration at the university. She graduated from Andover High School in 2001.

Kappa Delta Pi is an international honor society for students who intend to continue in the field of education. The society promotes professional fellowship among its members and develops professional growth by honoring achievement in educational work.

Christina Pierro of Andover will attend Presidential Classroom's program, July 2-9 in Washington, D.C. Presidential Classroom, an organization involved in civic education, provides high school juniors and seniors access to the leaders who shape America's public policy, according to a press release.

During the week-long program, scholars interact with Washington insiders, including members of Congress, presidential appointees, senior military officials, business leaders and journalists. Students observe the US Congress in action, visit their congressional offices, and debate current issues with peers from the United States and abroad. They also visit the sites of the nation's capital such as the White House, the US Department of State, and Arlington National Cemetery. Additional program highlights include a seminar on the floor of the US House of Representatives, a Central Intelligence Agency briefing and foreign embassy visits.

Bryant University in Smithfield, R.I. held its 142nd commencement on Saturday, May 21. Among the graduates was Adam C. Perry of Andover, who earned a bachelor of science degree in business administration management.

Caitlin S. Woo of Andover encouraged her classmates to be agents for change in a speech delivered at Bowdoin College's 200th commencement exercises in Brunswick, Maine on May 28.

As has been tradition since its first graduation in 1806, Bowdoin's commencement addresses were delivered by graduating seniors. The speakers are chosen through competition.

Woo gave a speech titled "Campus News: Chapel Towers Restoration Completed," in which she likened the ringing of the bells in the recently restored Bowdoin Chapel towers to the growth and change experienced by members of her class.

She recalled that when she and her classmates arrived on campus in 2001, they were a diverse group with varied expectations and comfort levels.

Every 15 minutes, the new college students were treated to the chiming of the chapel bells.

"In some way, the bells represented the excitement of a new start, the chance to take risks, insecurities about moving on, homesickness, and fun times with new friends," she described. "In the midst of all this freshman angst, and before we had our bearings, the profound implications of the Sept. 11th tragedy took its toll on our class and added to our turmoil."

In the fall of 2002, the chapel bells were silenced for the duration of the towers' restoration.

"It was during this stillness that a metamorphosis was taking place inside the so-called Bowdoin bubble," she said. "As our class began to transform itself from strangers into a community, we started to learn from one another and to borrow from one another's strengths, while simultaneously, we began to stretch in our own unique ways."

In the fall of 2004, the chapel towers restoration was completed.

"Class of 2005, those bells are ringing again! Have you heard?" she asked. "Bowdoin has been both a haven and a stimulus for life-changing growth. Her bells should remind us that if we are flexible, open, and if we are willing, we can be an agent for change and not just a participant. Having the capacity for change in yourself often translates to acceptance and tolerance for others, and in turn, this process will mold those around you. If we can all continue to do this, our world will truly become a better place."

Woo is a 2001 graduate of Andover High School. She majored in biology and Spanish at Bowdoin, was a 2002 and 2003 Sarah and James Bowdoin Scholar, and graduated cum laude with honors in biology.

Woo was awarded the Class of 1868 Prize for her commencement address.

During the spring semester of her junior year, she studied away in Salamanca, Spain. Community service activities included co-director of Bears and Cubs, the student group that mentors children waiting for a Big Brother or Big Sister, and volunteer at Mid Coast Hospital. She was also dancer with and co-captain of the Unity Step Team. Next year, she will be teaching general science at the secondary level in New York City for Teach For America.

Skidmore College in Saratoga Spring, N.Y. awarded bachelor's degrees and master of arts in liberal studies degrees at the college's 94th commencement May 21 at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center.

Seniors receiving degrees at the Skidmore College commencement include Stephen Yosh Hibino of 43 Wildwood Road, who majored in business/economics and Spanish.

Fourteen seniors were presented with 21st Century Scholars awards during the 135th commencement of the University of Massachusetts Amherst on Sunday, May 22, in Warren P. McGuirk Alumni Stadium in Amherst.

The awards are designed to recognize students who are academically accomplished and who have contributed to the university by exceptional achievement or have enhanced the reputation of the campus. The recipients are nominated by faculty for strong leadership qualities; noteworthy original research; community service; the achievement of success by overcoming extraordinary personal circumstances, or public presentation through art, performance or athletic ability.

This year's recipients include Crina M. Boeras, a biology major, from Andover.

This is the third year the awards have been given. The awards are sponsored by the Chancellor's Office and the UMass Alumni Association. The presentation of the senior awards during the undergraduate commencement is designed to focus the ceremony on the accomplishments of students and to recognize the support they have received from their families.

The Utility Contractor's Association of New England Inc. in Quincy recently presented seven $2,500 scholarships to high school seniors who achieved high personal goals, scholastically and within their community and civic, religious and volunteer organizations.

Backyard paradise retreats

Eight are showcased on local garden tour

Gardening enthusiasts Tom and Grace Busta took time out on the garden tour to pose near some colorful annuals in their backyard garden. He used to run Dana Landscaping. Now his son, Tom Busta Jr., runs the Andover-based company. The Bustas' garden even includes a model railroad winding through the grounds (photo at right).

THE WOVES WERE NUMEROUS as the gates to eight town gardens were opened, stunning visitors who had this reaction: "I had no idea."

After all, several of the streets on the tour are known for heavy traffic, not garden retreats. But on Elm Street for instance, there's a pretty, older blue house with a more-than-one-acre backyard that is truly a gardener's paradise. Digging for the garden started 12 years ago. Its hostas are plentiful in a shady area, while the sound of a garden pond makes visitors quickly forget about the local traffic.

A healthy 150-year-old beech tree offers lots of shade while decorative birdhouses and a patch of bright peonies and hordes of other green plants had tour-goers echoing the words of Sheila Centrella of High Street: "Who would have thought this garden was here? This is just a wonderful garden."

It's a picture-perfect scene as the train makes a stop in front of the garden's cascading waterfall.

Secret gardens go public

You never know where the garden tour will take you until you buy a ticket and get a map.

Here's this year's A-list of gardens that were awaiting ticket-holders last Saturday:

- 170 Elm St.
- 9 Brookfield Road
- 105 Reservation Road
- 15 Tucker Road
- 264 Andover St.
- 124 High Plain Road
- 112 Abbot St.
- 3 Lillian Terrace

The Andover Historical Society hosted its fifth garden tour last Saturday, June 18. The tours raise money for the group, which charged $20 for advance tickets and $25 on Saturday. The event is held every other year.

"It's a popular event," said Elaine Clements, director of the Society. "Laura Williams (a Historical Society volunteer from town) went above and beyond. She organized the event and worked with these great people who were willing to open up their gardens to the public."

The eight gardens reflected different types of Andover living. While the house styles were varied, all the homeowners clearly shared a passion for gardening. There was a hilltop retreat on quiet Tucker Road; the garden respite from busy Elm Street; gardens in older neighborhoods of Capes, ranches and colonials on Brookfield Road, Lillian Terrace and High Plain Road; and gardens with a restored, historic farmhouse in Ballardvale and a sizable newer home on Abbot Street.

Finally, a newer, oversized Cape offered a backyard vista that is considered one of the best in town.

In Andover, ponds rule. Most of the gardens on the tour included fish-stocked ponds.

Behind the garden gate at 9 Brookfield Road came not only a relaxing, cascading water sound, but the sound of a railroad.

The homeowner there, Tom Busta, is a model railroad hobbyist, in addition to being a gardener with his wife, Grace.

A large railroad track winds through their garden, which was filled with colorful annuals, a village scene and even a railroad traffic light.

"I enjoy it," said Tom Busta, who is retired from Dana Landscaping, but still works a couple of days a week at that business, as his son, Tom Busta Jr., now runs it.

Dana Landscaping of Andover, which specializes in water gardens, was a sponsor of the garden tours.

Hartney Grey, lawn and tree specialists, was the other sponsor.

The Busta family clearly enjoys the fun, whimsical side of gardening. Tom Busta Jr.'s garden was also on the tour, and it includes a putting green right in the middle of his greenery and pond on High Plain Road.

Andover Garden Club President Joyce Bakshi pointed out how many gardeners are including space for children when they work on design plans.

"We're seeing more of this and it's great to see the kids' area included," she said from her station on Abbot Street, where a garden included a swing set and sandbox.

"It's been a gray day with many smiles," she said of the event. "People really enjoy this."

Andover Historical Society honors longtime volunteer

By Karen Wakeling

THE ANDOVER HISTORICAL SOCIETY recently held its annual volunteer appreciation luncheon at The Four Winds, the Greater Lawrence Technical School's restaurant. More than 35 volunteers enjoyed a buffet, from Italian wedding soup to pastry-covered baked apples.

Elaine Clements, executive director, acknowledged the volunteers for their dedication and commitments of time. A certificate of appreciation was presented to Margaret Roberts.

Roberts has been a volunteering member since 1975, when she started as a tour guide at the Amos Blanchard House. She recalls that membership was by invitation at that time, with the society's atmosphere more like that of a club with various seminars offered to its members. The Historical Society has changed a great deal since that time.

Roberts has enjoyed being a part of the society, as her family has deep roots in Andover. She is part of the third generation of her family born here, and fifth as residents.

Roberts attended Pynchard High School, then graduated from Simmons College, majoring in science. Various jobs (such as working on visual speech for the government's Project ECHO) took her away from Andover for a while, but she eventually returned to marry and build a home on Pine Street. Having a strong interest in art and history, it was natural for her to join the society, she says. Roberts didn't just join, though; she has invested countless hours in the collections department: cataloging, researching, and storing many items donated to the society.

She stays the course and has the patience to dig until the whole story can be uncovered about an artifact.

Two summers were spent working in the barn classifying tin ware, while her longest assignment – requiring more than five years – was to catalog and store more than 1,500 items from the architect Addison LeBoutillier's collection of sketches and watercolors.

Because she believes in sharing the collections with the public, Roberts has worked on nearly every exhibit for the past 25 years. Her favorite research project has been on the origin of valentines, interpreting the society's collection of these cards.

What makes Roberts special is not just her volunteerism at the society but her concern and helping hand for the community at large. She also spends time as the historian at West Parish Church. As a member of its Women's Evening Circle, she dresses Teddy bears to give to the police and fire departments for children in traumatic situations.

She's also a strong believer in education for women and supports this conviction by being an active Simmons College alumna and taking part in discussion groups at North Essex Community College.

The Andover Historical Society and the town of Andover have benefited greatly from this very special and caring volunteer.

Uniting Jewish women

Jawitz's Hadassah contributions are making a difference

By Greta Cuyler

WHEN JOANNE JAWITZ fled the violence of her native South Africa and moved to America 18 years ago, she could have lived a quiet life of relaxation. Instead, she volunteers her time and energies to Hadassah, a Jewish-American organization that supports Hadassah Hospital in Israel.

The Hadassah Medical Organization has been nominated for a Nobel Peace Prize this year.

Jawitz, an Andover resident, has been recognized as a Woman of the Year by the Southern Merrimack Valley Chapter of Hadassah. The award was presented recently at the Northern New England Region of Hadassah 2005 Gala Banquet.

"Hadassah is a great vehicle for me to make a difference," says Jawitz, who has raised both money and membership for her chapter, which covers the communities of Andover, North Andover, Reading, Tewksbury and Chelmsford.

Jawitz and her husband, Mark, both originally hail from South Africa. They were raised in traditional Jewish families and moved from Stoneham to Andover in 1995 because of Andover's large Jewish population.

Mark Jawitz, a veterinarian, owns the Stoneham Animal Hospital.

The couple and their 14-year-old daughter,

Joanne Jawitz of Andover, a native of South Africa, was selected as a Woman of the Year by the Southern Merrimack Valley Chapter of Hadassah.

DJ, make their home near Andover Country Club with their two pug dogs, Percy and Petunia. Their home is filled with South African art and most doorways are adorned with a mezuzah, a traditional Jewish blessing placed in doorways of the home.

As chapter membership vice president and donor chairwoman, Joanne Jawitz has helped to increase the local membership to more than 650 people.

Ninety-five percent of the money raised goes directly to Israel, she says, and the remainder is spent on local organization mailings and administration.

One of Jawitz's fund-raising ideas was to open her home for an evening and create a boutique, bringing together local craftswomen to sell their wares.

Jawitz says she's a proponent of promoting small businesses, including entrepreneurs who sell jeans, jewelry, leather clothing and evening bags.

"For me, Hadassah is a great way for me to use my marketing skills, people skills and networking to meet various people," she says.

Jawitz's involvement with the group began after viewing a Hadassah Hospital video featuring a young Israeli woman in an emergency room with the clock mechanism from a car bomb lodged in her throat.

The hospital does not discriminate among its Arab, Palestinian and Israeli patients – one of the reasons for its Peace Prize nomination.

Jawitz's Hadassah contributions have earned her the designation of a "keeper of the gate" and her name is inscribed on the hospital's wall.

Jawitz describes the group as a sisterhood that brings many diverse women together for a common cause. "We can unite Jewish women. We all have a cause, which is Israel," she says.

"I've been able to meet with women in their 60s and 70s who I wouldn't have met before," says Jawitz. She calls the group an extended family and "a wonderful support system."

Although Hadassah has traditionally been the domain of older women, Jawitz's chapter is trying to expand the group's network by including activities for younger women and children.

The group is planning a family fund-raising outing to the Lowell Spinners baseball game in August.

Jawitz also plans to work with local Jewish realtors to create welcome kits for new Jewish Andover residents to include local temple, pediatrician and other information.

SOCIAL NOTEBOOK

Andover Cycles is a new recreational cycling group with rides in the Andover area. Currently there are rides on Tuesday evenings for women only. On Wednesday nights there are rides open to everyone. These rides start at The Cycle Stop at 26 Chestnut St., and are 20 miles in length. "Cue sheets are provided so no matter what your speed you are welcome to join," organizers said.

Saturday morning rides are open to everyone and depart at 8 a.m. from The Cycle Stop. The mileage for this ride started at 40 miles and increases each week.

There is also a need for ride leaders who can meet the demand for rides on other days and at other times. To be a ride leader or to receive a listing of currently scheduled rides, contact andovercycles@yahoo.com.

"The Power of Goddess as Crone, the Power of Woman as Crone," a slideshow and lecture by Willow LaMonte, editor and publisher of the international feminist news journal Goddessing, will take place on Sunday, June 26, at 7 p.m. at the Unitarian Universalist Congregation, 6 Locke St.

In her talk, LaMonte will present empowering and beautiful images of old women and will discuss many of the functions long associated with the aging aspects of various goddesses from cultures around the world. "She will explore the wisdom that such aging goddesses bring to our personal lives and the life of the community, as well as the understanding they impart about the ways of nature and the cycles of our lives," organizers said.

LaMonte lived for the past 10 years on the island of Malta, where she has researched prehistoric goddess-oriented cultures. She now resides in the Tampa Bay area of Florida.

LaMonte's lecture is part of the 10th annual Women's Spirituality Series, a program offered by the Adult Education Committee of the Unitarian Universalist Congregation in Andover.

The lecture is free and open to the public; facilities are wheelchair accessible.

Memorial Hall Library in Andover expanded its reader services with the introduction of Kurzweil 3000, a software program designed to assist individuals with reading and learning difficulties.

Using high-quality synthetic voices, Kurzweil 3000 allows students to simultaneously hear and visually track words on scanned documents and web pages. Students with learning disabilities such as dyslexia and attention-deficit disorder have been shown to improve their reading speed and comprehension with regular use of Kurzweil 3000's study, writing and test-taking tools, organizers said.

The software and a scanner are available for use in the library's Information Services area. Reference librarians are available to assist users with Kurzweil 3000.

For information about using Kurzweil 3000 at Memorial Hall Library, contact the Information Services Desk. Call 978-623-8401, Ext. 31; or send an e-mail to rdesk@mhl.org.

For detailed information about Kurzweil 3000, refer to the Kurzweil Educational Systems Web site: www.kurzweil-edu.com.

Mary Cate Sullivan, 7, and her mom, Patti Sullivan, of 35 Suncrest Road, donated their hair last month to Locks of Love, the organization in Florida that uses the donated hair to make wigs with for children with cancer and other diseases. Both of Mary Cate's grandmothers have battled cancer and, as a result, wear wigs, so she was happy to donate her hair to a child who needs it, her mother said. It took more than two years for the pair to grow their hair long enough to donate the 10-inch ponytails they're holding.

Honored during Merrimack Valley YMCA's 2005 Volunteer Week celebration were program volunteers of the year (from left): Kara Smith of North Andover; Carol Robb of Methuen (Andover native); Radmila Dancikova of North Andover; Charles O'Connor of Andover; Katie LaBatte of Andover; Darren Berrigan of Methuen; Jade Gadomski of Methuen; and Guy Ehlbeck of Andover. Also honored for 2005 volunteer service, but not present at the ceremony, were Joseph Gannuscio of Methuen; Laura Mazzotta of Alton, N.H.; and Clifford Howe of North Hampton, N.H. ▶

AHS TRACK

Merrimack Valley All-Conference, Division 1 All-Star teams have a number of familiar faces

As anticipated, the state champion Andover High girls track and field team is well-represented on the 2005 Merrimack Valley All-Conference and Division 1 All-Star teams.

Versatile senior Meghan Keefe, a standout in the 100-meter high hurdles, long jump and a member of the highly-decorated 4x100 sprint relay, was named the MVC Division 1 Athlete of the Year.

Keefe made the All-Conference squad in all three of the above events.

Senior Felicia Thompson earned All-Conference in the discus and Division 1 All-Star in the shot put.

Senior Brittany Moriarty was named All-Conference in the 800 meters.

Joining Keefe on the record-setting 4x100 sprint relay, All-State champs and second in New England, are junior Caroline Pierce, junior Brittany Pierce and senior Jenny Dlesk.

The 4x800 'A' relay of Moriarty, senior Emily Korba, junior Courtney Hamer and senior Michelle Pirro compose the Lady Warriors' sixth All-Conference selection.

Other MVC Division 1 All-Stars are Korba in the 800 and junior Christina Muccio in the 100-meter dash.

Peter Comeau is the Division 1 Coach of the Year.

On the boys side, senior Chris Cole is All-Conference in the discus and an MVC Division 1 All-Star in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles.

Senior Dave Checrallah was chosen All-Conference in the javelin, and pole vaulter Gabe Greeley is an at-large All-Conference selection.

The 4x100 meter sprint relay 'A' quartet of Jason Sheldon, Pierre Hage, Alex Perry and Adam Cuomo also received top honors.

Division 1 All-Stars are senior James Primes in the two-mile, freshman Santi Costello in the long jump, sophomore Norbert Guery in the triple jump and the 4x400 relay 'A' team.

AHS tennis nets MIAA Team Sportsmanship Award

The Andover High boys tennis team was the recent recipient of the 2005 statewide Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association (MIAA) Team Sportsmanship Award.

The Golden Warriors were nominated by Merrimack Valley Conference representative Sam Colangelo, who is also the Billerica High head coach, and then selected by vote of the MIAA state tennis coaches committee.

The plaque was presented at the State Team Tournament championship matches last Thursday at Clark University in Worcester.

On hand from AHS to accept were 12 members of the team, head coach Mike Wartman and co-athletic director Brian McNally.

Several team parents also made the trip to Worcester to support the award winners.

Good conduct, respect for the opposition, overall attitude and spirit are among the criteria used to judge the nominees.

"Our captains, Josh Caplan and Mike Zakin, were excellent role models and were a big reason why the entire team displayed exceptional sportsmanship. It all started with them," said coach Wartman.

On the court, Andover put together a 15-3 season on the way to the Merrimack Valley Conference championship and a berth in the Division 1 North Tournament semifinals.

AHS BASEBALL

Bats gave Warriors the edge

By Rick Harrison

PAUL MALAGUTI BATTED .437 to lead the Division 1 North champion and state semifinalist Andover High varsity baseball team in hitting during the recently-completed 2005 spring season.

The Golden Warriors, who also won the Merrimack Valley Conference Division 1 title and finished the season 18-4 overall, had two players finish over .400 and eight bat .303 or better.

Among the regulars, Matt Hogan followed Malaguti at .406 and Matt Iorio was at .388.

Dan Godefroi hit .370 and Andy Hennessy .362, as they were the only two Golden Warriors whose averages went up in the 4-2 Eastern Mass. title-game loss to Walpole.

Matt Hennessy checked in at .352, Joe Gil .315 and Matt Furness .303.

The hit leaders were Iorio and Malaguti with 31 each. Godefroi 30, Hogan 28, Matt Hennessy 25 and Andrew Hennessy 25.

Iorio had 28 runs scored, Malaguti 25, Godefroi 21 and Matt Hennessy 19. Hogan boasted 27 RBI, Godefroi 21, Matt Hennessy 19, Greg Carroll 18 (on 16 hits) and Malaguti 14.

Doubles leaders were Iorio and Malaguti six apiece, Andrew Hennessy, Hogan and Godefroi four each.

Carroll slammed four triples, Godefroi three and checking in with two each were Furness, Gil, Matt Hennessy, Hogan, Iorio and Malaguti.

Hogan and Godefroi owned the club's two homers.

The team stole 29 bases, paced by Malaguti with seven and Iorio six.

On the mound, Godefroi finished 7-1 with a 1.94 ERA. In 57 2/3 innings he allowed 42 hits and 16 earned runs while striking out 69 and walking 22.

Craig Lanciani went 5-0 with two saves and a 2.26 ERA. In 31 innings he yielded 21 hits and fanned 23.

Myke Fortier was 6-1 with three saves and a team-best 1.36 ERA. In 51 2/3 innings he surrendered 37 hits and whiffed 30.

Godefroi was selected to play in the annual Eastern Massachusetts All-Star Game at Fraser Field in Lynn this past Monday night.

He was one of only four underclassmen tabbed for the North team, which defeated the South, 4-2.

The Walpole team (24-2) that edged Andover, 4-2, in the state semifinals was subsequently nipped by West Springfield, 1-0, in the state title game at LeLachur Park in Lowell.

American Legion state champs score 40 (11, 14 and 15) runs in their first three games

By Rick Harrison

THE REIGNING Massachusetts state champion Andover Post 8 American Legion baseball team launched its 2005 season with three resounding victories, scoring 40 runs in wins over Nashua, N.H. Coffey Post 3, Haverhill Post 4 and Saugus.

Andover (3-0) opened with an 11-3 non-district romp over Nashua at Holman Stadium, and then won twice in the same day with a 14-3 rout of Haverhill and 15-6 trouncing of Saugus in an afternoon-evening double-header at Peter Aumais Park.

Saugus was one of four makeup games that had to be rescheduled because Andover High was busy winning the MIAA Division 1 North title and playing in the state semifinals which overlapped the start of the Legion campaign.

Other postponed games with Beverly, Peabody and Swampscott have yet to be reset.

Post 8 returns all but five players from the state champs, including centerfielder Jarrett Mackin, pitcher Kyle Ahern and third baseman Brian Buckley who are now too old to play.

The current 18-player roster includes 13 veterans from the 2004 Legion squad, which finished 26-5, and nine who recently completed an 18-4 season with Merrimack Valley Conference Division 1 and North 1 titlist Andover High.

Talented group

All 18 players reside in Andover, and in addition to AHS other schools represented by one or more are Merrimack College, UMass Boston, Northern Essex Community College, Brooks School in North Andover, Middlesex School in Concord, St. John's Prep in Danvers and Governor Dummer Academy in Byfield.

The players, listed in alphabetical order with school affiliation in parentheses, are Tom Arrigg (Brooks), Patrick Bateson (Northern Essex), Conor Burke (St. John's), Kevin Calabro (AHS), Nick Caro (Governor Dummer), Greg Carroll (AHS), Myke Fortier (AHS), Dan Godefroi (AHS), Dan Haugh (St. John's), Andrew Hennessy (AHS), Matt Hogan (AHS), Tim Hughes (Middlesex), Matt Iorio (AHS), Joel Keefe (UMass Boston, in process of transferring), Craig Lanciani (AHS), Paul Malaguti (AHS), Zack O'Donnell (Middlesex), Ryan Shepard (Merrimack).

Manager Joe Iarrobino is in his 17th season, while assistant coaches Kevin Rourke (12th season) and Keith Grant (6th season) also return.

Everyone is healthy except for Caro, who suffered a chipped elbow playing basketball and is expected to return on or around July 1.

Pitching the key

"Needless to say we can hit the ball," said Iarrobino. "We proved that last year and with 40 runs already this season. We have the luxury of seven or eight lefty batters, plus Godefroi who is a switch-hitter. That gives us good balance from both sides of the plate.

"Our success will depend on what kind of pitching we get. The high school team went four or five deep and we have their top three plus a few more.

"We're probably going to need every arm — because with the makeups we could be playing four games each week to get them all in before the playoffs," said Iarrobino.

The mound staff includes Godefroi, Fortier, Lanciani, Bateson, Arrigg, Burke and Haugh.

"Defensively we have flexibility, especially on the left side where we added Zack O'Donnell. We can play him at short and Malaguti at third, or switch to Malaguti at short and Carroll at third.

"Matt Iorio is as good a second baseman as we've had here. Hogan is solid at first base and Hughes is an ironman at catcher with Shepard and Caro as strong backups," said Iarrobino.

"The outfield is also deep with Keefe, Godefroi, Shepard and Calabro.

"We were a very young team last year — and this summer we've switched to a veteran team. We had no college freshmen last year and now we have three.

"As the defending state champs we expect to see every opponent's best pitcher. We'll have to be up to that challenge," said Iarrobino.

Schedule

Post 8 returned to action last night, after Townsman presstime, under the lights at Gloucester (O'Malley Park).

Saturday the locals host Nashua in a non-league rematch, and Sunday district foe Lynn Gautreau will be at Aumais Park (5 p.m.).

At presstime Andover was trying to schedule another of the makeup games for Saturday at 5 p.m.

Andover 14 Haverhill 3

Post 8 grabbed a 7-0 lead after three innings, and broke open a 7-3 game with seven runs in the bottom of the fifth.

Lefthander Patrick Bateson (1-0) notched the pitching win after working five innings of four-hit ball, fanning five and walking one. All three runs he yielded were unearned.

Tom Arrigg mopped up with two frames of two-hit, shutout relief.

Highlighting a four-run second were a single by Matt Hogan, RBI triple to right field by Tim Hughes, sac-fly by Zack O'Donnell and run-scoring double to right-center by Paul Malaguti.

In the third, Ryan Shepard and Hogan drew back-to-back walks and pulled off a double steal. Hughes hoisted a sac-fly, O'Donnell was hit by a pitch and Andrew Hennessy laced a two-run single.

Eleven batters paraded to the plate in the seven-run fifth.

Hogan was hit by a pitch, Hughes singled and O'Donnell walked to load the bases. Hennessy hit a sac-fly, Matt Iorio walked and Malaguti walked to force home a run.

Dan Godefroi's infield out plated O'Donnell, Joel Keefe singled to center for a run, Shepard walked and Hogan hammered a two-run triple to right-center.

Hogan and Hughes finished with two hits and two RBI each. Shepard and Hogan scored three runs apiece while Iorio, Hughes and O'Donnell crossed twice.

Defensive standouts were the busy keystone combo of second baseman Iorio, with six assists, and shortstop O'Donnell with four assists.

Andover 15 Saugus 6

Post 8 scored in every inning, including three runs in each of the first three frames and four in the fifth.

Righthander Myke Fortier (1-0) pitched the first 4 1/3 innings, fanning five and allowing three earned runs.

Craig Lanciani tossed the final 2 2/3, retiring the last eight Saugus batters in order after issuing a bases-loaded walk to the first hitter he faced.

Lanciani struck out three and escaped further bases-jammed damage in the fifth after a flyout to shallow center and groundout to second baseman Iorio.

In the three-run Andover first, Iorio walked, Paul Malaguti singled to left, Joel Keefe drilled an RBI single to center and Ryan Shepard clubbed a two-run double to left.

It went to 6-0 in the second when Andrew Hennessy reached on an error. Iorio was hit by a pitch and the pair worked a double steal.

Malaguti lashed a two-run single to center. Keefe was hit by a pitch and Matt Hogan's fielder's choice grounder rescued Malaguti.

After Saugus scored four times in the top of the third to make it 6-4, helped by three errors, Post 8 countered with three more in the home half.

Hughes' single to right in the fourth plated Shepard (walk) with the lone tally.

A four-run fifth-inning rally started with consecutive one-out singles to left by Keefe, Hogan and Shepard (RBI).

Godefroi lofted a sac-fly, Hughes walked and Greg Carroll lined a two-run single to left.

The final run in the sixth came without a hit. Iorio and Malaguti were both struck by pitches, a throwing error moved the runners up and Iorio crossed on a wild pitch.

Keefe's 3-for-4 led a 12-hit attack while Malaguti, Shepard and Hughes laced two safeties each.

Defensively Malaguti, Iorio and Hogan, who produced many of Andover High's 20 double plays this spring, turned a crisp 6-4-3 twin-killing in the top of the first.

District 14 Little League All-Star Tournament

All-Star Tourney starts July 5

By Rick Harrison

Andover will once again field two teams in the Major 11-12 year old division of the annual double-elimination District 14 Little League All-Star Tournament.

The National and American League All-Star teams were selected recently, just as the regular season came to a close with a pair of one-game playoffs this week to determine the participants in the best-of-3 Town Championship series, tentatively scheduled to start this Sunday at Deyermund Park.

The District 14 tourney will begin on Tuesday, July 5.

Both Andover teams know who their first-round opponent will be, but at Townsman presstime the exact day and site of the games had yet to be announced.

Andover National, the reigning district champion, will play South Lawrence West in its opener while Andover American battles Tewksbury National.

"The entire tournament schedule will be released after we have the coaches meeting this week," said District 14 commissioner Fred Daley of Tewksbury.

All Andover home games will be played at Deyermund Park off Chandler Road in the west section of town.

Other cities and towns with one or more teams entered include Lawrence, Methuen, Haverhill, North Andover, Lowell, Billerica, Tewksbury and Chelmsford.

Last July the Andover Nationals, coached by Len Driscoll, blasted through the 2004 district tournament undefeated with five consecutive wins over Lawrence Prospect Hill (5-1), Methuen West (11-0), Billerica National (8-5), Andover American (2-1) and Methuen West (5-0).

Andover American bowed out with a 3-2 record, registering consecutive shutout wins over Tewksbury American (6-0), North Andover East (4-0) and Methuen East (2-0) prior to a pair of tough one-run losses against A-N and Methuen West (5-4 in the district semifinals).

The Nationals advanced to the Massachusetts Sectionals, going 3-2 before being ousted by Wakefield National in the championship game.

The locals beat Hamilton-Wenham (7-6), Lynn Wyoma (1-0) and Wakefield (2-0) prior to a 9-0 loss to Wakefield in their third meeting.

One member of that A-N team, Alex Driscoll, is back this summer while all others have graduated to either Pony League or Senior League.

All 24 members of this year's two 'Star teams are 12 years old.

Andover National and American have combined to win the district title 11 times in the last 25 years.

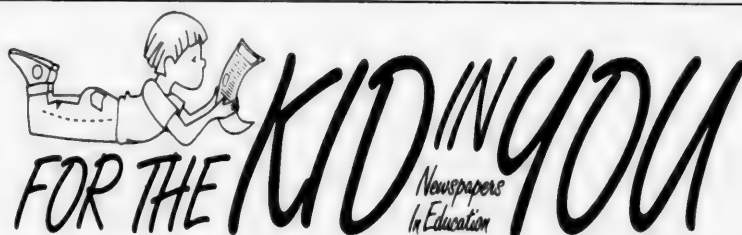

The Americans most recent D-14 championship was in 2002 when they also won the Sectionals and played in the four-team State Tournament finals, beating Wellesley (11-5) before losing to Worcester (3-0) and eventual state and Regional champ Middleboro (8-5).

The Americans also reached the state finals in 1999 and were district finalists in 2003 when they dropped a 7-5 decision to Tewksbury American in the title game at Pollard Field in Billerica.

The ultimate Andover tournament ride was taken by the 1988 Andover Nationals, coached by Jim Arnold, John Murphy and Red Harris and led by players Rick Saggese, Toby Guzowski, Paul Allard, Matt Wolcott, Todd Harris and Danny Hansberry.

That crew won district, sectional, state and regional titles, going 16-1 along the way, and advanced to the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa. where they lost to Spring, Texas

Roman campsite becomes castle

Life is pretty quiet in Carlisle, England these days. It hasn't always been that way.

Carlisle is on the border between England and Scotland. Today, those two lands, along with Wales, make up Great Britain.

England and Scotland used to be enemies, and because of that, Carlisle Castle was built.

For 1600 years, the two countries fought for control of the town. Depending on who won the last battle, the town served as a defense for the northern part of England or the southern part of Scotland.

Today the castle's only invaders are tourists. Its history is even older than England.

The name Carlisle comes from the Celtic word for camp, or "caer." The Romans built a military station in what would become Carlisle. It was just south of a wall built by the Emperor Hadrian. The wall was the northernmost outpost of the vast Roman Empire.

Hadrian's Wall was constructed across the narrowest section of the island in an attempt to keep invaders from the north from entering the Roman Empire. Scientists have found artifacts like money, weapons and pottery owned by Roman soldiers on the castle grounds.

The oldest building on the site today is a stone keep built in 1122 by Henry I of England. A "keep" is the central stronghold of a fortress or castle. It is the original heart of the castle. The keep has been used for many purposes. King David I used it as his palace. It has also served as a military barracks, an armory, a storage building and a prison.

During the region's many conflicts, prisoners would sometimes be sent to the Carlisle's keep. Mary Queen of Scots was briefly imprisoned there in 1568.

She was locked away in a comfortable apartment. Prisoners of lower rank did not receive her privileges. In the castle dungeon it is possible to see where prisoners licked the stone walls to get moisture in their bodies.

Carlisle Castle is built on top of a hill in the town of Carlisle. It is surrounded by a thick stone wall. To enter, you walk through a long stone tunnel and you can see where there used to be a draw bridge and a portcullis, or iron gate that could be raised and lowered.

The windows are narrow so the soldiers inside were smaller targets

ANDOVER LITTLE LEAGUE

Andover Little League Major Division Town Championship series

Athletics will face Braves or Cubs

By Rick Harrison

Twin brothers Mike and Sean McQuillan combined for a three-hit shutout, while Mike Davidson and Harry Ameen contributed key run-scoring hits, as the defending Town champion Athletics advanced to this year's best-of-3 Andover Little League Major Division Town Championship series with a 4-0 victory over the Yankees Tuesday night at Deyermont Park.

The A's triumph came in a one-game American League title playoff between winners of the first and second halves of the regular season.

The Athletics, 11-6 overall, will meet the winner of last night's National League single-game playoff (after Townsmen presstime) between the reigning champion Braves and Cubs.

The annual Town series is tentatively set for this coming Sunday, Tuesday and Wednesday (if necessary) - although those days were not definitely confirmed at presstime. Games start at 6 p.m.

The reigning Town champion A's won the first half and the Yankees the second half in the AL.

In the National League, the Cubs won the first half for the second straight year and the Braves captured the second half for the third consecutive season.

Dave Berthiaume is the Cubs' manager and Ed Taylor the Braves' manager.

Last year the A's and Braves met for Town supremacy, with the A's sweeping the series in two tight pitcher-dominated 5-2 and 1-0 games.

The Braves, in the league's most dramatic turnaround ever, won the Town championship in 2003 after going 0-16 the previous year.

Both the AL and NL were very competitive this spring, as shown by the final regular season standings listed below.

AL PLAYOFF Athletics 4 Yankees 0

The A's jumped to a quick 3-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning before adding their final run in the third.

Righthander Mike McQuillan pitched the first 5 1/3 innings, yielding three hits, and brother Sean mopped up by getting the final two outs without allowing a hit.

In the three-run first, Sean McQuillan singled. Alec Weiss laid down a sacrifice bunt and Mike McQuillan walked.

Both runners advanced on a passed ball before a throwing error produced the first run.

Kyle Wakefield then walked and Mike Davidson laced a two-run single.

In the third Davidson singled, stole second and scored easily on Harry Ameen's triple to right-center.

Davidson and Sean McQuillan drilled two hits each and Mike McQuillan added a single for the A's.

Ten-year-old rightfielder Christian Connors made a heads-up defensive play for the AL champs.

The Yankees, who finished 9-8 overall, had solid pitching performances from starter Colin Norris (three innings) and Nate Elkin (two innings).

Smacking a single each for manager Sean Norris' Yanks were Colin Norris, Luke Walker and Colin Rivet.

These two rivals split a pair of regular season games, the A's winning the first, 3-2, before the Yankees captured the rematch, 2-0, less than two weeks ago.

The A's roster includes Harry Ameen, Roger Bourland, Christian Connors, Jake Cunningham, Mike Davidson, Ben Dykstra, Tom LoMedico, Mike McQuillan, Sean McQuillan, Fred Scribner, Kyle Wakefield and Alec Weiss.

Jeff Weiss is the manager and coaches are Tom McQuillan and David Ameen.

2 Warriors in Shriners Football Classic

Mike Muccio and Mike Cerchione, two key senior members of Andover High's 10-1 varsity football team last fall, will play in the 2005 Shriners Football Classic tomorrow night (Friday) at Bentley College in Waltham.

The annual All-Star Game, to benefit the children in Shriners Hospitals across the country, is scheduled to start at 7 p.m.

Practices concluded today and there was a banquet for all players and coaches last night at Lantana's in Randolph.

Golden Warriors' 2004 captain Muccio, a 5'9", 218-pound linebacker and fullback, was an inspirational leader who scored 18 points, a ferocious lead blocker for the prolific running game and one of the team's top tacklers.

Cerchione, a 6'4", 255-pound two-way tackle, excelled at pass blocking and stopping opponents' running games.

SPORTS TALK

By Rick Harrison

This column, compiled from information supplied by the colleges or by friends and relatives of the student-athletes, youth standouts and coaches involved, is published periodically in the Townsman. Information may be mailed to the office at 33 Chestnut St., Andover, 01810; or faxed to 978-470-2819.

Edith Muller of Andover, a sophomore member of the Bryant University women's spring track and field squad, has been named to the 2005 Northeast-10 Conference All-Academic Team.

To be eligible for selection, a student-athlete must have participated in at least half the team's events, be either a starter or significant contributor, achieved a 3.2 or higher cumulative grade point average and completed at least one academic year at the school.

The Northeast-10 All-Academic Teams are chosen by vote of the conference sports information directors.

Bryant is located in Smithfield, R.I.

Steve Seero of Andover, a sophomore student/athlete at Assumption College in Worcester, was recently awarded his second varsity letter in men's lacrosse.

Seero started 10 games for the Greyhounds, Northeast-10 Conference members, scoring 11 points on five goals and six assists.

The Andover High graduate is also on the college's Athletes Honor Roll, whose selection criteria includes maintaining a grade-point average above 3.0 while being a starter or significant contributor on a varsity sports team.

At AHS, Seero was hockey All-Conference in the Merrimack Valley/Dual County League, a league All-Star in lacrosse and co-captain of both sports.

Brian Coffey and Alex Lehmann, both of Andover, helped lead a pair of Austin Prep (Reading) spring sports teams to strong seasons.

Coffey, a senior captain on the boys varsity lacrosse team, helped the Cougar lacrosse to an undefeated 17-0 regular season and a trip to the MIAA Division 2 North Tournament semifinals where AP suffered its only loss to Cohasset.

Alex Lehmann

Brian Coffey

Lehmann was a junior captain on the boys varsity track and field squad, which finished third at the annual Catholic Central League Championship Meet.

Sam Clark of Andover was a member of Lightning Baseball's gold medal winning 14-Under age group team that captured the New England AAU Regional championship recently at Tufts University in Medford.

Clark ripped two hits in a 6-0 quarterfinal round victory over Thunder Baseball of Peabody, and he was the winning pitcher in a 14-4 semifinal romp over the Worcester Ballplayers.

Lightning topped an original field of 37 teams from New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Sign up for sports camps

The 12th annual Andover Warrior Summer Baseball Camp will be held at the West Middle School fields in three sessions running June 27 to July 1, July 5-8, and July 11-15.

Daily hours are 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. (doors open 8 a.m.).

The camp is for youngsters ages 7 to 15 years. Those interested are encouraged to apply early as enrollment is limited.

Tuition cost is $190 for sessions 1 and 3 and $175 for session 2.

Andover High head varsity baseball coach Ken Maglio is the camp director, while assistant directors are Rich Robinson and Dave Gangi.

Fundamentals of hitting, bunting, fielding, throwing, catching and baserunning will be stressed with specific drills for pitchers, catchers, infielders and outfielders.

Campers will be grouped by age and there will be drill stations, individual evaluations, daily games, awards, T-shirts and instruction by a qualified staff.

Required forms may be downloaded from www.andoverwarriors.net. Both physical and health history forms were required to be on file with camp officials by June 1.

For further information contact Ken Maglio at 978-623-8709 (work), 603-635-2158 (home), 978-623-8715 (fax), or e-mail ken.maglio@verizon.net.

The Web site is www.andoverwarriors.net.

The first annual Andover Warrior Summer Football Clinic will run from July 18-22 at Andover High.

Daily sessions, directed by AHS coaches through the Department of Community Services (DCS), will go from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Youngsters age 7 to 15 years are eligible. Past and present high school players will also be on the staff.

For more information contact Kim Stamas at 978-623-8276, or Ken Maglio at 978-623-8709.

School Committee's David Samuels:

Teachers' decision 'a grenade'

AHS teachers not taking stipend to teach extra course

By Dorian Block

School Committee members say the teachers' union is telling Andover High School teachers not to teach extra courses, leaving the district in a financial bind.

The union denies the charge.

The School Committee estimates just a "handful" — at most, three high school teachers — have volunteered to teach an extra 82-minute course during the fall semester for a $4,000 stipend. Based on the new contract signed in February, the School Committee had planned on 40 teachers taking on extra courses, an option built into the teacher's contract settlement so the district could afford the 9.29 percent raise given to teachers over three years.

If teachers are not interested, the School Committee also has the option of hiring retirees to teach courses for $4,000. Last month, Rebecca Martinez, an assistant in the human resources department, said 29 retirees applied to teach the courses. Tuesday night, Superintendent Claudia Bach and the School Committee said there were fewer than a dozen applicants.

Committee member David Samuels said teachers have told him they are interested in teaching the extra course but have been dissuaded by union leadership.

"We've been bamboozled," Samuels said. "They want to step up to the plate and have been discouraged from doing so. They've been told it would appear in the next round of negotiations that all the teachers should be teaching a heavier course load."

Teachers currently teach three 82-minute blocks one semester and two 82-minute blocks the next semester. During negotiations, the School Committee argued that if teachers could do it one semester, they could do it both. They also said teachers in a majority of other districts with similar schedules taught three classes each semester. The School Committee planned to save money by losing positions to attrition and filling them with the individual $4,000 classes.

Union President Thomas Meyers said he personally thinks teaching an extra course is "educationally unsound" — an opinion he expressed during negotiations — but that other teachers are free to do what they want to do.

"We have not tried to dissuade it. We formally endorsed it. It was voted on by the membership. The contract is signed," Meyers said.

But the lack of volunteers leaves the high school short-staffed for next year and the School Committee without money to hire five new teachers.

"This throws a grenade in the rebuilding process," Samuels said. "I'm just so losing sleep over this. Especially when the answer is in front of our face and we're being teased."

Samuels said he would knock on doors himself to convince teachers to take on the extra course.

School Committee Chairwoman Deb Silberstein said she does not believe this will be resolved by the fall, but that teachers will ease into the option in future years. She suggested teachers close to retirement might want to take on the extra course to raise their post-retirement pay, and that younger teachers with lower salaries could use an extra $4,000.

Teachers will have to volunteer to teach the courses or the School Committee will need to find money from elsewhere in the budget over the summer to pay for the needed teachers.

THE BACK PAGE

No 'rest home' for the aged

before you take the steep curve downhill.

Several years ago, I came across a vintage sign titled, "ANDOVER HOME FOR AGED PEOPLE RULES AND REGULATIONS." On it were several simple rules. They were shockingly draconian.

The first rule said: "The matron's orders in all matters relating to the domestic government of the Home must be observed by all the inmates."

The Home was not a democracy; the matron was boss. And, uh-oh, the old folks were called "inmates." Gee, wouldn't it make you a bit nervous if your favorite Aunt Tilly became an "inmate"?

The next rule required the inmates to perform "duties" required by the matron and "render all the service they can for the benefit of the home." No elderly shirkers allowed. This was not a resort, and if you thought that Aunt Tilly's remaining years were going to be spent in a "rest" home, scratch that idea, Bucko.

In rules three and four, inmate "visits to fellow inmates were left to the discretion of the matron" and inmates were allowed "no intoxicating liquors ... except under the direction of the matron or physician." I guess keg parties were out of the question. No Animal House here; even visiting your fellow inmates required the matron's permission.

And this thing about no intoxicating liquors bothers me the most. Your Aunt Tilly is old, maybe infirm; she has chores; she can't see her fellow inmates; and now, for crying out loud, she can't have a wee drop or two.

Another rule allows outside visitors for only three hours a week, on Wednesday afternoons, unless the matron granted an exception. Now just a second, the Birdman of Alcatraz had more visitation rights than Aunt Tilly.

And who the heck can visit on Wednesdays? What is wrong with weekends?

Which gets us to the last rule. Aunt Tilly had an appeal process in the event she had a grievance: she was allowed to complain to the Board of Managers in writing after first "addressing the problem to the matron."

Those grievance meetings with the matron probably weren't tea parties. Your tiny, trembling Aunt Tilly, without that wee drop in her tummy, approaches the matron with a complaint about how the matron is running things. Good chance that's going to work out well for good old Tilly.

Boy-oh-boy, the rules were harsh, but we should remember that this was in a different era, an era before government programs like Social Security or Medicare. The inmates were people without the means to take care of themselves or family who would take them in. The Andover Home for Aged People was a safety net — nothing more, nothing less.

The Back Page column is written by Bill Dalton, a former Andover selectman and Town Meeting moderator who now writes from Atlanta.
